

violation of the food and drugs act. The article was labeled in part: (Can) "McGrath's Tomatoes Champion Brand * * * Packed by H. J. McGrath Co. Baltimore, Md."

Adulteration of the article was alleged in the libel for the reason that a substance, water, had been mixed and packed therewith so as to reduce, lower, or injuriously affect its quality and strength and had been substituted wholly or in part for the said article.

Misbranding was alleged for the reason that the statement and designation "Tomatoes" and cut of a red, ripe tomato, appearing on the labels, were false and misleading and deceived and misled the purchaser, and for the further reason that the article was sold under the distinctive name of another article.

On March 13, 1925, the H. J. McGrath Co., Baltimore, Md., having appeared as claimant for the property and having consented to the entry of a decree, judgment of condemnation and forfeiture was entered, and it was ordered by the court that the product be released to the said claimant upon payment of the costs of the proceedings and the execution of a bond in the sum $3,360, in conformity with section 10 of the act, conditioned that it be relabeled in part: "Champion Brand Tomatoes Contains 15% Added Water."
