

The article was alleged to be misbranded in that the statements, "Superfine Olio Rita", "Rita Brand Oil is guaranteed absolutely pure under any chemical analysis", and "L'Olio Marca Rita E'Garentito assolutamente Puro Sotto Qualsiasi Analisi Chimica", with respect to the Rita brand, and the statements, "Olio Unico", "Garentito Puro Sotto Qualsiasi Analisi Chimica", the prominent name "The Italian Olive Oil Corp.", and the green color of the can, suggestive of olives, with respect to the Unico brand, borne on the respective labels, were misleading and tended to deceive and mislead the purchaser, since they created the impression that the product was olive oil; whereas one lot was essentially cottonseed oil with some olive oil present and the other was essentially cottonseed oil with some peanut oil and some olive oil present, and this misleading impression was not corrected by the statement on both labels, "Composed of Twenty Per Cent Pure Olive Oil and Other Vegetable Oil Eighty Per Cent", since the latter statement was in much smaller type and far removed from the word "Olio." Misbranding of the Unico brand was alleged for the further reason that the statement on the label, "Olio Unico Brand A really Superior Salad Oil", was misleading and tended to deceive and mislead the purchaser, since the term "Salad Oil" includes olive oil.
